ABSTRACT

A beam forming method for a smart antenna and smart antennas configured to employ the method, in which pre-multibeam processing and time delay aligning are implemented to array signals, and then a suboptimum weight is calculated by means of a pilot frequency symbol, and an optimum weight is iteratively calculated with the suboptimum weight as an initial value, and finally the beams are formed by means of the optimum weight.

-10-